

SPAIN 1995

The Tireless Travelers

Old Vasco set sail from Lisboa,
And sailed 'ore the world, just like Noah.
These Phi Mu's with vim, like to emulate him,
They have all of that get-up and go-a!

Gone To The Dogs

Why do they tell us to look up and around,
When we really should be, more intent on the ground.
They narrow the streets so there's less space to share.
If they restricted the dogs, then no one would care.
If you're steps were unlucky, please not to fuss.
Just clean it off well 'fore you get on the bus.

To the Princess Bride

I came to the wedding, Just a couple days late.
She was always inpatient, just couldn't wait.
I sent her a flower, included a note.
It was only a poem with a nice little quote.
I told her be happy, have fun every day.
If she's ever in town, stop in for a stay.

In the Crowded Synagogue

When ever you travel with this noisy crowd,
Please try to be silent, or not very loud.
You can't get too boisterous, you've got to be quiet,
Because if you're not, there may be a riot.
The worse you may get is an impolite "sheeee"!
Better be the shushor, and not the shushee

Be a Smart Shopper!

I should have held out for another pound.
He might have gone lower the next time around.
I thought I had, the world's biggest steal,
'Til I found someone else, with a much better deal.
But then I found out, how to start a small riot.
Just quote your low price, don't bother to buy it!

The Stone Mason

They sent him back home in disgrace,
He had carved out the wrong kind of face.
He hammered like hell.
But alas couldn't spell.
His mistakes took too long to erase.

My Birthday!

Oh what a trial to be on the Nile,
When your natal day rotates around.
When everyone thinks you're as old as the Sphinx,
And you stumble and fall to the ground
But it was lots of fun to be just the one,
The subject of frivolous gaiety.
Who danced through the night (it was a delight)
But how can I top this at eighty?